gamesgdsJune 6, 2020Cheats, Main Guides » Cheats » Driving and Conquer: Remastered Collect Cheats Welcome Back, Commander! Looking for driving and conquering: Remastered collecting cheats on pc? Here we'll list command and conquer: Remastered collect cheat codes and unlockables with tips for rts and westwood 4K remastered game. Here I will show you how to unlock all driving and conquer: Remastered group codes with a list of cheats that's true for the computer version (where available). Take a look at the cheats below... Luckily there are still computer cheats working! Despite the fact that developers said that cheats would not be officially in the game (but that may be a reference to the console cheat codes in the version), they have also fixed a lot of old glitches. Command and Conquer: Remastered Set - Real-time graphics classic switch to 4K UHD How to switch between original graphics and remastered: Press the space key on your keyboard during any singleplayer campaign task (and in solo skirmishes games as well) to see real-time graphics switch from the new 4K graphics remastered back to the classic 1995 and 1996 original graphics. You can play any way you like. Switch graphics from old to new and backward by pressing the space key over and over again. It's great whenever you've had enough of re-1440p 1440p high-resolution 4K graphics and a nostalgic feeling that 1990's retro 320×200 resolution! (Originally 640×480 screens.) Note that this switch also changes the music and sound effects from the original version to remastered versions! Unlockable Bonus Content Gallery How to Open Bonus Gallery Content: Each singleplayer campaign mission finished in driving and conquering and red alert remasters, will launch behind the scenes content for you to view in the bonus gallery. The rewards gallery includes more than 4 hours of B-roll shots, photo-making, and unreleased musical tracks. Some of these will never be seen behind the scenes for FMV footage like this old beta camera video with Ken from C&Amp C NOD Good End: Driving and Conquering: Remastered Group - Behind the scenes Ken Finish Shoot Access new exclusive console and expand mission pack instantly how to play new missions exclusive console and expansion package instantly: you can access the expansion package &Amp; exclusive console missions from the main menu, by going to Mission Select, selecting the additional mission tab (click on goggles and gaming controllers), then you can choose the task you want to play out from Nintendo 64 C &Amp;Amp; C and PlayStation 1 Red Alert or 1 C &Amp; C and Red Alert 2 expansion packs that you want to play with! That's right, from the console to the computer, you can now experience the original console missions now on the computer. They even included original console cinematic videos for you to watch on your computer, featuring a general favorite carvel community. Driving and Conquering: Remastered Group – Secret Operations Expand Ing Mission Selection Package A combination of C&Amp;Amp; C and Red Music Driving and ConquerIng Alert: Remastered Collection - Jukebox Music Player (Game Mixer Playlist Games) When the game pauses, you can adjust the music in the game that you play through the new improved Jukebox feature. In fact it lets you customize your entire audio with playlist support. What this means is that you can play more than 7 hours of remastered music, including 20 re-recorded music tracks live by the original composer Frank Klepacki and the Sons of Tiberius. - This beautiful remixed sound is available in full in both games, so you can play C&Amp;Amp; C in Red Alert and Red in Music Alert C&Amp;Amp C! Be sure to add bonus tracks as are music tracks that were not previously released at the time of the original games included for the first time in this collection. Camera Zoom Command and Conquer: Remastered Collection - Camera Zoom How to Zoom in on the Battlefield: Another neat little extra feature in the Remastered set is that you can scroll the mouse wheel up and down to zoom in on the camera between the old DOS and the Windows Gold '95 version spaces for a better view of the battlefield. So you can zoom in on the action. Driving and conquering remastered cheats no base damage from air strikes, ion cannon explosions and nooks in the NOD campaign: The GDI computer player will send many A-10s with air strikes to the north of most base building or field unit (and in later missions many ion cannon explosions as well). Instead of building expensive sam sites* to stop air strikes, you can either build a tower or other cheap building at a safe northwest distance above your base and keep rebuilding it or sending a cheap Minigunner soldier far enough north of your base over and over again, so that air strikes never hit the main base/army. Note that enemy units that come to attack your base will also try to kill every soldier who is most north of all your units/buildings. * Similarly, all enemy units will go to the most northerly building. You can abuse this even further by actually building a SAM site with some defenses under or to the right of it, because even enemy engineers will go to sam's site to take over it, but instead there will be no harm it won't be (nothing happens haha). In addition to being a powerful building, it can take a punch, even nuclear. In the GDI campaign: Computer player NOD does the same, and in subsequent missions will keep launching nuclear missiles to your building most north. Again, you can build a cheap tower or other building at a safe northwest distance above your base and keep rebuilding it. This will save you a lot of expensive damage to repair during a period where Tiberium expenses management is the key to your victory. Sandbagging glitch to box in the enemy how to make difficult missions easier with sand: in a singleplayer campaign, when building sandbags (or any kind of building walls capable) do not get recognized as an enemy target by computer players, but only as a The object they ignore. You can exploit this bug into the enemy box at its own base, by building a wall around it, leaving them unable to attack you any more. The simplest exploit is the box in the enemy Harvester (s) with a sand wall, so they run out of money and can not attack you any more. Open Funpark Dinosaur Missions How to Unlock Hidden Missions Singleplayer Dinosaurs: [Uncertain] Complete either GDI or NOD singleplayer campaign of the main game (or all of the secret operations missions?) will launch additional missions for you to play involving a dinosaur invasion. You can access dinosaur missions from the main menu, by going to select the task, choose the dino logo tab, and then you can choose what mission funpark campaign you want to play! In C&Amp;Amp; Original C: Expanding secret operations you had to start the game by typing c&Amp;Amp; c funpark to start a new game with special dinosaur missions. But of course this will no longer succeed in a new edition. Please comment below if you find an easy trick to open them immediately. As described later, The Red Alert's Secret Ant missions can be opened in the main menu. Hope C&Amp;Amp; C has similar cheating. Driving and conquering: Remastered Collection - Expansion Pack, Console and Funpark Dinosaur Missions Select Red Alert Remastered Unlock Unlock Missions The Ant How to Unlock the SinglePlayer Hidden Ant Missions: While you're on the main menu in Red Alert, move the mouse to hover over the top right side of the main menu where you see a speaker in the background. Next, press the SHIFT key on the keyboard and at the same time tap the left mouse button on the speaker for instant access to the secret Ant missions. The next time you play Red Alert, you can reach it more easily than the main menu, by going to Mission Select, choosing the Ant Logo tab, and then you can choose the task that it came from! Ant campaign you want to play! Driving and conquering: Remastered Collection – Expansion packs in red alert, console and silo nuclear select ant missions sell glitch to earn free gold and pedestrians how to get free money and infantry units: Step 1: When playing as Soviet or Allied, build a technology center to reach an advanced building like a rocket silo that sends an atomic bomb. Now wait for your nuclear bomb to get ready by switching the right-hand side build menu to Superweapons Tab.Step 2: Then the speed of the game can be adjusted from the options menu by stopping the game with the Esc key and selecting options and then set the speed of the game to its slowest (move the slider all the way to the left). Step 3: Once done, return to resume the game and put rocket silo and mini map side by side on the screen, so you have to move your mouse as little as possible in the next steps. Step 4: Press shift &Amp; S keys at the same time to go faster &Amp; get out of selling mode, or you can find a $$sale button for it in the building menu from the right side (use whichever is easier for you). Now you are. To use the Nuclear Weapons Depot sell Glitch.Step 5: With the atomic bomb ready, sell your rocket silo, sell-out mode, and instantly select &Amp; launch the atomic bomb into your enemy via the mini-map (since the time is the essence). Because you fired an atomic bomb after the sale, the sale of the rocket silo will be automatically cancelled! But it will remain partly in the sale of... Giving you a portion of the sale price and 5 random infantry units for free, while still shooting nuclear! You can use this sale bug as many times as you want, you just have to wait for the nuclear to be ready to be launched. © refurbishing the ore of each mission [can't get this old cheat to work anymore] in a singleplayer campaign, whenever you find yourself running out of raw, save the game and then reload it. Ore will have been completely re-established and you will have as much to go into to get cash as you had at the beginning of the task. [Work in Progress: We'll update this page after it's launched to better reflect changes in master replay!] Driving and conquering: Remastered collect tips and tricks the basics of playing in most missions, and your goal is the same - build structures, pedestrians, vehicles and take full control of the map by destroying the other team and all its structures.
